Is "Mailbag" All Honey?

• Could you please, just for once, print a letter derogatory to the CBC? You know the CBC is not that much superior to others. Also, it gets a little monotonous — the one or two letters from Minnesota or North Dakota telling us how superior the CBC is to the "trash" they get over there. . . . We have watched TV down there too. I am not "American" either—so there! —L.M., Winnipeg.

Recent Mailbag columns have carried such phrases as "... a ridiculous script, anaesthetic acting, unbelievable characters ..." "... we don't want plays like the one shown ..." and "... without these programs, I never would get my dishes done. ..." One could hardly construe such words to be complimentary, but we believe in letting the chips fall where they may.

The only letters categorically eliminated from this column are personal attacks on individual performers. All other letters are judged on their merit, regardless of whether they treat us kindly or not.

Children Are People

• Bouquets to your children's programs Friendly Giant, Sing Ring Around and Flower Pot Men.

Friendly Giant is very well done and (Mr. Homme) is so calm, yet imaginative.

Sing Ring Around holds the attention of my three- and four-year-olds and I feel it's the type of program I want them to see.

Flower Pot Men amuses my six-year-old.

The language and grammar is good and I hope to see these shows continued. Congratulations, they treat children like normal people instead of morons.—Mrs. J.S., Calgary.

Should CBC Radio Beam to the South?

• I was delighted to hear very clearly on my car radio your Northern

Messenger service to Arctic Canada. It is another example of the fine radio service provided by the CBC which we poor relatives south of the border must do without, perhaps because of our more destructive commercialism.

. . . It would indeed be a favour to many of us if the CBC would beam some powerful waves southward. Who knows—if enough people listened, we might in a generation or so get something as good ourselves. You might even put in a bit—in good Canadian taste of course—on the beauties of vacations in Canada. — H.G.H., Boulder, Colorado.

Grateful for Glenn Gould

• Over the past year or two I have watched and listened to several telecasts featuring Glenn Gould. After the April 8 program (Glenn Gould on Bach) I cannot any longer allow mere inertia to keep me from expressing to you my gratitude for these performances.

If proof is needed that great music can be presented effectively on TV, here it is! While this is true, I think the programs stand as a triumph for Mr. Gould even more than for the television medium. He seems about perfect for TV: truly great musicianship, with physical expressiveness, sincerity, charm and intellect to project it meaningfully to his audience.

It doesn't take much of this to make me more than happy about any of my tax money that finds its way to the CBC; nevertheless, I am calling for more.—W.R.A., Edmonton.

• On April 8 was presented one of the finest things on TV—Glenn Gould on Bach. For a brief moment, TV was lifted above the ordinary, the commonplace and the tawdry.

Congratulations to the CBC for bringing Canada's original genius into our homes. It would be money well-spent if the CBC could devote itself to a definitive recording and videotaping of Glenn Gould as commentator and interpreter of the Bach Well-Tempered Clavichord, the Goldberg Variations, etc., not only for our time but for posterity, not only for Canada but for the world.—G.A.H., Winnipeg.

Devoted Listener

• . . . I am a devoted listener to CBC radio and admire your stand on maintaining intellectual programs despite the other stations, that have deviated far from this course. — D.B., Winkler, Man.

Which Programs Should Be Cut?

• With regard to the program adjustments on CBC-TV during the Stanley Cup series: Ice hockey is our national sport and it is understandable that it receives wide coverage on the network during the final play-offs. However, the balance of the evening viewing is chopped up deplorably.

On Thursdays in particular, one of the best shows on CBC, The Defenders, has been displaced by such inanities as My Three Sons and Ben Casey, M.D.

The calibre of The Defenders far surpasses Ben Casey, M.D. The boorish, insensitive portrayal of Ben Casey is a slight to the profession.

The Defenders, on the contrary, shows us tolerant and educated individuals who may not have all the slick answers but in their dealings are an example to all men.—Mrs. J.T.H., Edmonton.

We are sure there would be viewers who would agree with you, and those who would disagree with you, regarding the relative merits of these programs. But in any case, the CBC has had no choice but to put on Ben Casey, and not The Defenders for a reason that would not be obvious to those unfamiliar with the technical workings of the CBC.

Ben Casey is not carried on the network lines, but is shown as a film by each station scheduling it. The Defenders, however, is a regular network telecast, and, as a result, cannot be seen without the facilities of the trans-Canada microwave service that carries our network programs.

The microwave facilities are not normally available to the CBC after transmittal of the evening news and Viewpoint, so the only programs seen on CBC stations after that time are local films or productions. Therefore, a film of Ben Casey could be shown after the hockey telecast and the news, but The Defenders could not.

FEMININE BEAUTY and charm, coupled with intelligence and widespread experience, are packaged together in Front Page Challenge's new permanent panelist, Betty Kennedy. Women's editor of Toronto radio station CFRB, the lovely Mrs. Kennedy is not unknown to audiences elsewhere in Canada. In Calgary, she was permanent panelist for four years on the radio program State Your Case. In Montreal, she was editor of a fashion trade publication, and gave commentary at 60 to 70 fashion shows a season. In Ottawa, she was writer, researcher and hostess on a CBC-TV women's show, and also was co-host on the show Let's Go Outdoors.

She became women's editor at CFRB in 1959, and since moving to Toronto has been a frequent guest panelist on such shows as Live a Borrowed Life, A Case for the Court, The Superior Sex, and Front Page Challenge.

Amidst this busy career, Betty has found time to devote to her family. She enjoys outings with her sons Mark, Shawn and D'Arcy, and she takes part, with tom-boy relish, in such sports as fishing, hunting, swimming and golf.

CBC RADIO LISTENERS will note that many time changes have been effected in listings published in this issue, due to Daylight Saving Time being instituted in much of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. There may be an hour's difference in the time at which many of your favourite programs are to be heard, so be sure to check our listings carefully.

As more of the winter-time radio series come to a close, new programs are scheduled to take their place. Some we have not previously mentioned in this column:

Tales and Trails of the Yukon, Wednesdays. A series of 15-minute documentaries telling of the old days of the Yukon as recorded in the letters, diaries and stories of old-timers.

Soundings, Thursday evenings. Documentaries dealing with such topics as Quakerism, founding of the Salvation Army and pricing of drugs.

Four's Company, Saturday evenings. Drama starring Mavor Moore, John Drainie, Ruth Springford and Diana Maddox. The hour sometimes is used for a single play, and at other times for segments or works of poetry. Guest stars are heard occasionally.

DANCING CAN BE one of the most creative, expressive forms of art, as Don Gillies shows audiences this Saturday on The Wayne and Shuster Hour, on CBC-TV. In his special number, Gillies will take advantage of technical tricks worked out by CBC cameramen. Animated drawings picked up by one camera will be matched with Gillies' dancing, shot by a second camera. The overall effect, when the two pictures are combined, will be that of a lithe human body interpreting the shapes and movements of the lines.

On Our Cover . . .

This magnificent mountain canyon is known by the unpoetic name of Dead Horse Gulch. It is one of the views along the paths followed by adventurers who trekked to the Yukon during the days of the gold rush—days that are recalled on Tales and Trails of the Yukon, Wednesdays on CBC Radio.

Stravinsky at Massey Hall

IGOR STRAVINSKY, one of the greatest and most fertile composers of this century, will conduct the CBC Symphony Orchestra in a concert including some of his latest works. The program will also include Canadian premières of three works by Arnold Schoenberg, conducted by Stravinsky's young assistant and biographer, Robert Craft. The concert, to be given in Massey Hall on Sunday night, April 29, will be recorded for broadcast on radio as part of CBC Wednesday Night, May 2. The proceeds from ticket sales for the concert will aid the Dag Hammarskjöld Scholarship Fund sponsored by the United Nations Correspondents Association. (The concert is at 8:30 on CBW and CBX, 9:30 on CBK.)

Other artists taking part in the program are the Festival Singers, directed by Elmer Iseler, mezzo-soprano Shirley Verrett-Carter, tenor Lorin Driscoll, narrator John Horton, and violinist Israel Baker. During intermission in the Wednesday Night broadcast Stravinsky and Craft will be interviewed by Canadian composer Harry Somers. All the works on the program will be recorded for later release on long-playing records by a commercial firm.

The Stravinsky works include his newest composition, A Sermon, A Narrative, and a Prayer, a deeply personal, meditative cantata for speaker, alto, tenor, chorus and orchestra, which The Observer of London says "may prove one of the pinnacles of 20th-century religious art." The first movement is a sermon by St. Paul on the nature of hope; the second tells the story of the stoning of St. Stephen; the third is a prayer based on some words by Elizabethan playwright Thomas Dekker. The work was commissioned by Paul Sacher for his Basle Chamber Orchestra, which first performed it in Switzerland in February. It has been described as "a seamless work that proclaims its parentage as unambiguously as The Rite of Spring or the Symphony in Three Movements. That is why it is easier to grasp than much of what Stravinsky has written in the past decade."

Other Stravinsky works to be heard include his Eight Miniatures, and his a-cappella setting of a T. S. Eliot text, The Dove Descending, which the composer completed early this year. Stravinsky and Eliot have long admired one another's work, and those who brought them together hope the two may collaborate later on an opera.

The Schoenberg works, conducted by Robert Craft, include Prelude to Genesis; Concerto for Violin and Orchestra, and the cantata A Survivor of Warsaw, a tribute to the Jews who died in Nazi death camps, with text by Schoenberg. In this last work the composer's 12-tone style is much more approachable for the average music-lover, than in some of his other works.

Although for many years Stravinsky lived just a few miles from Schoenberg in California, they never met. Stravinsky holds the late 12-tone prophet in high esteem, but until recently has been diametrically opposed to him creatively. In the last few years Stravinsky, long known for the strong, exhilarating melodic line in his writing, has been branching into serial writing. He has always been open to suggestion—for 60 years has been sampling and adding to new musical ideas with a fervor that appears to be undiminished at almost 80. One critic has described him as a wily old fox who has vaulted onto numerous bandwagons and has sat enthroned in masterly possession while lesser and more timid composers

"Four's Company"

Returns

For Another Season

JOHN REEVES

THE TORONTO Drama Quartet returns to CBC Radio Saturday evening, April 28, for its fourth season. This new series is here introduced by the program's producer, John Reeves.

"The mixture will be much as before. The make-up of the quartet is the same as in previous seasons—Diana Maddox, Ruth Springford, John Drainie and Mavor Moore. The format of the programs, too, will be similar in aim—that is, we shall concentrate on what makes for good reading. This is essentially a program for sharing pleasure in the written word (in all its diversity) rather than a specifically theatrical series of broadcasts.

"Theatre has its place in the series, of course. Indeed, two of our first three programs have directly to do with theatre, one being devoted to a play and the other to dramatic criticism. The former is Aaron Slick of Punkin Crick by Lt. Beale McCormack, a rural comedy which in the slightly less than 30 years of its existence has rung up a record number of performances, having been played far more often than any other drama in existence, however old. It is also one of the worst plays in existence!

"The program on dramatic criticism is an anthology of some of the things which have been written by theatre critics down the ages up to a few years ago; it has no pretensions to being a serious, comprehensive or definitive study of the subject; the pieces have been chosen simply because they are entertaining and, in some cases, surprising.

"This is the spirit which has guided our choice of material in a good many other programs of a collective kind. The first program of the season, for instance, is a collection of bits and pieces about the New Year in Canada and the ways the season has been celebrated in various places and periods. And later there will be anthologies of great speeches, great translations, and great letters, a treasury of unconscious humor, and a 'legendary' of Flood myths.

"Another and original use of the anthologizing impulse will be a play on Lucrece, mainly taken from the Shakespeare poem, but some parts of which are taken from other sources which are roughly contemporary with Shakespeare and which evince some kinship of style; they are Philemon Holland's translation of Livy, and plays by Thomas Heywood and Nathaniel Lee.

"Mentioning Shakespeare reminds me that we have usually tried, once each season, to include a work by a classical author. In past years we've gone to Greek tragedy; this year, we're drawing on an English classic, with the Wife of Bath passages from Chaucer's 'Canterbury Tales.' A similarly classic author, though on a much more modest scale, is Max Beerbohm to whose writings we are devoting a program in much the same spirit in which, during past seasons, we've devoted programs to the writings of Frost, Auden, and Yeats.

"Another past custom has been to present a children's book. This year we'll follow it twice: first, with a collection of pieces from children's books of Fleming will introduce the experts. Music From the Films, a long-time CBC radio favourite, is prepared by Gerald Pratley and presented by announcer Frank Herbert. Fleming has been a guest on the show many times.

shuffled along with the crowd. But there is an amazing unity in all his phases. Unity, says this grand old energetic crusader, "is a harmony of varieties, an ordering of the Many."

To celebrate his forthcoming birthday on June 18 (which the CBC will mark with special radio and TV programs), Stravinsky has decided to do something extraordinary (for him)—take the whole month off. But after that he'll be his usual busy self. The government of Israel has commissioned him to write a mammoth choral work in Hebrew, based on the Bible story of Abraham and Isaac, to have its première at the Israel Music Festival next year; he is just adding the finishing touches to a dramatic music and dance work for television (in collaboration with choreographer George Ballanchine) based on the Bible story of Noah and the Flood, commissioned by a New York TV station; he recently scored his piano pieces (1921), Les Cinq Doits, for 10 instruments; and he and Craft have just completed the fourth and last volume in their series of Conversations. The third volume, off the press a few weeks ago, has created quite a stir in the musical world with its bold attacks on critics.

After a summer of conducting, Stravinsky may make his much-discussed, on-and-off-again trip to Russia, his homeland, which he hasn't visited for about half a century. In September he will conduct in Israel at Jerusalem, Haifa and Tel Aviv, and will be honoured with a ceremony in which 1,000 Israeli children will each plant a tree in his name.

COLOUR

The Keynote for

"Musical Murals"

COLOUR-VARIETY OF COLOUR—that's what Montreal musician Edmund Assaly was after when he picked the musicians for his Tuesday afternoon series on Trans-Canada radio. And that's how the program came to acquire a title suggestive of the world of painting—Musical Murals. (So much for the wag who started a rumour that this was to be a program of Music to Climb the Wall To).

And what's the musical equivalent to buying many tubes of paint for your palette? Ed Assaly's was to pick the most versatile musicians he could find, and to write arrangements exploiting their versatility to the fullest. There's Joe Christie, for example, who supplies at least four colours to the Musical Murals—those of the clarinet, alto saxophone, and two different types of flute. Yvan Landry and Ronnie Page play mainly vibes and drums, respectively, but nobody has ever counted the number of percussion instruments which, between them, they can handle. Ed Assaly himself will lead the group from either piano or celeste, and only harpist Marie Iosch and bassist Don Habib will confine themselves to one instrument.

From this talented group Ed Assaly intends to draw some sounds and tonal designs which he hopes listeners will come to look forward to as a refreshing change. Each week's show will include: three arrangements of numbers from Broadway musicals—one for voice, one for piano solo, and one for the group, followed by an original composition played by Assaly, and a song about the weather. Sheila Graham will be heard as vocalist every second week, alternating with French-Canadian girl-singers.

Although Musical Murals will be the first network series on which Assaly has been featured as leader, neither performing on nor writing for radio is anything new for this Saskatchewan-born musician. Since he came to Montreal in 1947, his career has changed gradually from that of performer to that of performing arranger. He was best known as a pianist when he arrived in the East; now he spends about half his time composing and arranging music, the other half playing or conducting it.

He arranges for many leaders, including Neil Chotem (a fellow-student in the famous piano studio of Lyell Gustin in Saskatoon) and Ted Elfstrom (of whose jazz octet he is a member); he also writes for the CBC French network television show Music-Hall and for ballet performances, and he has been musical director and arranger for many revues, including the spectacularly successful My Fur Lady.

Many listeners will recall a program on which he demonstrated both aspects of his talent—the bilingual Saturday night show Ca C'est Montréal, on which he played a different work for piano and orchestra every week—all of them composed by himself.

National Schools Telecasts

Weather, Phys. Ed. and Eskimos

THREE NEW five-part series begin this week in the National School Telecasts, seen twice weekly on CBC-TV. What is Weather?, a 20-minute series, will be seen on Tuesdays, and two-quarter-hour series, Physical Education and Eskimos, will be seen Thursdays.

Script-writer and host for What is Weather? is Rube Hornstein of Halifax, a nationally-known meteorologist and broadcaster. Each program will offer authoritative information on some of the fundamentals of meteorology, a discussion of the effect of weather on man and his activities, and instruction for making a simple instrument for the student's home weather-station. The May 1 program will explain the meaning of air pressure and how it is measured, how high and low pressure areas are delineated on a weather map, and will illustrate the weather typical of both highs and lows, and the many ways the weather influences farm activities. Viewers will be shown how to make a simple barometer. Later programs will deal with storms, clouds, precipitation, and thunderstorms.

The first half of Thursday's show, starting May 3, will offer demonstrations of specific physical education techniques and skills, and will suggest simple ways in which teachers can expand their physical education programs. It is hoped that the series will help to interest students in physical education and encourage them to improve the standard of their sports performance. The programs will be conducted by Marlene Claney, physical education specialist with the Toronto Board of Education, assisted by children in demonstrations and games.

The second half of the Thursday shows will present Doug Wilkinson with stories of the Eskimos he has known. In the last 15 years he has spent more time in the Arctic than he has on the "outside," has lived as the adopted son of an Eskimo, worked as a Northern Service Officer for the Department of Northern Affairs, shot and produced films on Eskimo life, and has written dozens of scripts, stories and articles about the North. His productions of Angottee and Land of the Long Day for the National Film Board won many prizes. His book, Land of the Long Day, tells of the year he spent as Kingmik, adopted son of an Eskimo hunter. Kingmik is an Eskimo word meaning dog. It's what the Eskimos thought Wilkinson's name was when they first heard someone call him Doug.

SPORTS

IN 1960 THE Cincinatti Redlegs finished sixth in the National Baseball League. In 1961 they captured the pennant. In 1962, it might be a lot easier for the Redlegs to again finish sixth than repeat their pennant-winning performance of the previous year.

In other words, in contrast to the American League where the Yankees automatically get the nod, picking a winner in the National League is almost as tough as winning a three-legged race, by yourself. San Francisco, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Milwaukee are all rated a threat to Cincinatti's throne. Last semester, Cincinatti pitchers and hitters got together and decided to have a good year at the same time. Frankly I'd be willing to wager the mortgage on the old home-stead that it won't happen again, at least not this year.

Many experts have chosen the Cards for the 1962 pennant. The Cards have possibly the best pitching staff in the National League, in such stalwarts as Larry Jackson, Ernie Broglio, Ray Sadecki, Curt Simmons, Lindy McDaniel and Bob Gibson to mention a few. They've got power in the bats of Ken Boyer and Bill White. And if their two veteran outfielders, Stan Musial and Minnie Minoso, can come through the Cards could go all the way.

On Saturday afternoon, April 28, on the CBC Television Network, baseball fans across the country will see last year's champions, Cincinatti, and one of this year's pre-season favourites, St. Louis, battle it out in "the game of the week." Dizzy Dean and Pee Wee Reese will provide their usual colourful commentary.

The veteran Stan Musial will provide added interest in this particular game, and also during the balance of the season. Stan the Man, who has said this year will be his last, is the holder of, or shares, 13 major league records, and has bettered or shared 39 National League marks. Earlier this season, Musial eclipsed Mel Ott's old National League mark of runs scored, when Stan crossed the plate for the 1,860th time. Other milestones that Musial will be shooting at this season are National League records for hits, at-bats, runs-batted-in, and games. Major league records within Musial's grasp are long hits and total bases.

Following the baseball game, the popular "Golf with Stan Leonard" series features the bad shots commonly made by the average golfer, such as topping the ball, shanking and general miss-hitting. These errors will be analyzed by Leonard, via the slow motion camera.

On Sunday, swimming and bowling are the highlights of the television sports coverage, as viewers are provided with a ring-side seat for the Ontario Swim Meet, and the Canadian five-pin bowling championships from Saskatoon. On the bowling show, final stages of the men's and women's single championship will be telecast. Scarborough is the locale of the swim meet, and Fred Sgambati reports the highlights. So all in all it adds up to another busy weekend for television sport.

"An Islington stockbroker had just finished a twenty-one foot high sculpture of an elephant in his back garden. An impressed friend asked how he managed to get such a perfect likeness without a model. The stockbroker replied: 'Oh, I just kept chipping off the pieces that didn't look like an elephant'."—Clive Roslin on the BBC.

He's a westerner, born in Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, in 1921. After his family moved to Saskatoon in 1928 he was active in music festivals as singer and pianist, and won a number of prizes. When he was 15 he began to compose. His talent so impressed Australian pianist-composer Arthur Benjamin when he visited Saskatoon that he suggested Fleming go to England for further study with him at the Royal College of Music, which the boy did for two years. Later Fleming's studies at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto were interrupted by his service in the RCAF.

In 1946 he joined the staff of the NFB as composer-conductor, and was appointed music director in 1958. He has written over 100 documentary film scores, as well as works for solo voice, choral groups, piano, orchestra, chamber groups, and ballet, many of which have been performed outside Canada.

Newspaper Magnate Interviewed on TV

"WHEN ROY THOMPSON speaks," says a British newspaperman, "I always expect to hear a bell and see a cash drawer shoot out of his waistcoat."

An interview with the Canadian-born, 67-year-old Thompson, a shrewd, jovial Fleet Street and North American newspaper baron with an empire of close to 100 newspapers, magazines, and radio stations, valued at $90 million—the man who recently hired the Earl of Snowdon as artistic adviser for his Sunday Times—will appear on CBC-TV Sunday afternoon. He'll be interviewed by John Freeman in the first program of a nine-part series of the BBC-produced Face to Face conversations with men and women of note.

Thompson, who started off as the son of a Toronto barber, now admits his exclusive interest is making money, would sooner take a balance sheet home to read than a book, and thinks it unfair to say that a poor man could enter the Kingdom of Heaven more easily than a rich man.

He was once described by a female employee as "a money-grasping old goat, but a dear old goat at that." Now he says he wants a peerage.

Health last November—the first woman to head a West German Ministry.

the past; and second, with a single work from our own century, 'The Wind in the Willows.' The latter has long been travestied on the stage in A. A. Milne's adaptation, "Toad of Toad Hall" but we shall present it in a new treatment that we hope will prove as honest as it is demonstrably overdue.

"Moving from the nursery to the kitchen, we shall also air a demonstration of Mrs. Beeton's cook book. She, in her way, is one of the most famous women in history, as too was Lucrece. Two of the most infamous women in history also have their hour in a double bill devoted to the Countess of Somerset, the 17th century poisoner, and to Jane Webb, the 18th century pickpocket. And not to imply that woman-kind is fit only for crime, violation, or cooking, we are also devoting a program to women of the Bible, using a cross-section of different biblical translations.

"Finally, we have three programs which have some kind of loose connection with each other, being studies of three aspects of tyranny: 'Black Like Me,' by John Howard Griffin—the report of a white Texas journalist who transformed himself by hormone treatments into a Negro and lived as one in the Southern States; 'The White Rose,' by Judge Schell — the tribute of a German woman to her brother and sister who were executed for leading a student rebellion against Hitler in Munich during the war; and 'The Natural History of Nonsense,' by Bergen Evans — a catalogue of some of the bigotries which enslave the human mind.

"There, then, is our season. We have striven to make it diverse. And we hope that some of you, some of the time, will find it also diverting."

1 tablespoon flour

Pour some on ham for serving and the rest for passing at the table.

Marg Osburne:

The Temporary Replacement That Stayed On

MARG OSBURNE, vocalist on CBC-TV's Don Messer's Jubilee, got her "big break" in show business quite by accident—an accident that happened to someone else.

It happened 15 years ago when Charlie Chamberlain, singer on the Don Messer and His Islanders program on CBC radio, spent two months in hospital recuperating from injuries received in a car accident. Marg was hired as a replacement—and has been with the group ever since.

Marg is a featured vocalist on Don Messer's Jubilee, seen Mondays on the CBC-TV network, and on the Don Messer Program heard Monday, Wednesday and Friday on the CBC's Trans-Canada radio network.

Her mellow way with a song is no accident; she has been singing for as long as she can remember. As a small girl in her home town of Moncton, N.B., she performed at concerts, at church and at school. She admits that she doesn't have a trained voice. "I learned my harmony in a choir loft. You can learn a lot that way if you have an ear for music," she says.

Marg's professional career started when she was 16 as a result of a bet.

"My cousin was visiting me in Moncton and heard me singing," Marg recalls. "She bet me $5 that I wouldn't phone the local radio station (CKCW Moncton) and ask for an audition."

Marg took the bet, auditioned the next week, and found herself with the offer of an immediate job. A few years later Don Messer asked her to join his group as a temporary replacement for Charlie Chamberlain.

"In those days the show originated from Charlottetown, P.E.I., and when Charlie recovered, they couldn't get rid of me," says Marg.

"We became fixtures on the show—there's no separating us."

As a singer, Marg Osburne has a vocal quality that is different. Through the years as an entertainer, she has preserved a presentation that reflects a genuine sincerity. She makes up for her lack of store-bought glamour with a personal, natural warmth that radiates on TV and radio, and on personal appearance tours.

Marg is married to Austin Squarebriggs, and they live in Dartmouth, N.S. They have two children, David, 8, and Melody Faye, 2.

Marg has mixed feelings about the numerous tours the Don Messer group makes across the country. "I love to see new places, meet people and entertain them," she says, "but I dislike travelling and living out of a suitcase. I guess I'm just a home girl."

To the surprise of many fans on these personal tours, this 36-year-old housewife sings any type of song well. She is not exclusively a singer of western or folk songs, and can hold her own with the best of pop singers, as she proved on three guest appearances on CBC-TV's Juliette Show.
